

IMV Projects earns honourable mention in 2013 Alberta's Best Workplaces awards

Alberta, Canada is a province of entrepreneurial spirit, strong work ethic, and a thriving business community. IMV Projects is happy to announce it has been recognized as among the best in Alberta Venture's Best Workplaces 2013. IMV Projects' high standards and comprehensive programs for health, wellness, and safety have earned Honourable Mention for this year's Health and Safety category.

Alberta Venture is an award-winning monthly business magazine with a provincial focus. In addition to local businesses, Alberta Venture covers trends, issues and people in the business community. In conjunction with their program partners, Certified Human Resources Professionals, Alberta Venture selected 31 winners and finalists across different categories, including Health and Safety. The competition is open to all Alberta companies.

IMV Projects prides itself on its culture and its staff dedication to upholding health and safety standards. To be recognized in this category means that IMV Projects is actively living out its core values and that and successfully incorporating them into all aspects of the company environment.

In light of the recent crisis with the flooding in Calgary, IMV Projects' health and safety measures have proved to be exemplary. As Calgarians realized the seriousness of the situation, IMV Projects executives and health and safety leaders were able to come together and ensure that all IMV Projects staff members were in touch and out of harm's way.

As Calgarians begin to understand the full impact on the floods, IMV Projects personnel have demonstrated their strong commitment to health and safety and our values. Many have volunteered their time, effort, and equipment to support their colleagues and assist in cleaning up and rebuilding the homes of staff members affected by the floods. These were organized by IMV Projects' Health, Safety, and Environment team.

This is an important win for IMV Projects because it is the first major recognition the company has received and it reinforces the value of the organization's extensive health and safety programs and policies.

"We are pleased to have been recognized in the Alberta's Best Workplaces Awards," says Kevin O'Brien, president, IMV Projects.

We are particularly pleased to have been acknowledged in the 'Health and Safety' category because it is a long-standing priority for everyone at IMV Projects and across the Wood Group Mustang organization. Together, I believe we will maintain Alberta's position as a world-class place to live and work."
