IMV Projects Invests in community with launch of philanthropy program 'IMV Cares'

First IMV Cares initiative in support of Habitat for Humanity Calgary

CALGARY, Aug. 9, 2011 /CNW/ - IMV Projects, a Wood Group company, today officially launched a comprehensive philanthropy program entitled 'IMV Cares'.

For the first IMV Cares initiative, 20 IMV Projects volunteers joined a Habitat for Humanity Calgary team last week in Cochrane, Alberta (northwest of Calgary) to assist in the construction of townhouses. Another IMV Projects team will return to Cochrane on August 23, to complete the work.

"Habitat for Humanity Calgary is an inspiring organization that mobilizes volunteers to build affordable housing as a means to help combat the cycle of poverty," says Kevin O'Brien, president, IMV Projects. "The IMV Cares program represents the formalization and expansion of our company's philanthropic efforts. By working with Habitat, IMV Projects volunteers are being given a perfect opportunity to support the community. And, rather than simply asking our people to volunteer their personal time, IMV Projects is making participation possible on company time. Thanks to Habitat, several Albertan families soon will be living in new homes. On behalf of the IMV Projects team, I am grateful for this opportunity to invest in our community and I'm particularly proud of our people who are rolling up their sleeves in support of such a worthy cause," adds Mr. O'Brien.
